THE FRONT COVER

A fine picture and a pictorial record of this winter's record-breaking snowfall was caught by Al Joseph, sophomore photography student. Al, a native of sunny Los Angeles, was one of the few students on campus during the storm.

From the Editor's Desk . . .

THE ENTIRE staff of the Alumni Office takes this occasion and space to wish all of you best wishes for a happy, successful, and peaceful New Year.

It is quite apparent that on the achievement of the last-named blessing hinges the attainment of the other two for all of us. As this is written, the year ahead looms ominous. One would be something less than a realist if he tried to ignore the dark facts of our times. But he would be just as unrealistic if he permitted himself to lapse into a lethargic pessimism. The times call for a stock-taking, a review of the job to be done and the resources we have with which to do it. There is yet time to direct all the strength of those resources toward peace. But if the forces of peace do not prevail, Americans of all groups will unite to muster a mighty strength to defend the way of life that is their heritage.

THIS MONTH'S Alumnus is reporting a piece of news (page 9) such as it has not had to report in several years. And, when last we wrote about an Ohio University alumnus becoming a casualty of war, we fervently hoped that never again would we write another such news story. But our hopes and prayers have been shattered by the war in Korea.

To Second Lt. Richard Replinger has come the unwelcome distinction of being the first Ohioan to be reported to the Alumni Office as a casualty of Korea. Fortunately, Lieutenant Replinger's injuries were not critical, and we understand he is on the mend. We wish him Godspeed in his recovery and return to his family.

Quite likely there have been other alumni wounded or killed in the fighting in Korea. We wish it weren't so, but reports of other casualties will come to us. If you know of any other graduates or former students of the University who have become casualties in the Korean conflict, please send the news along to the Alumnus.

Indeed, we want to keep a complete record of the uncensored activities of alumni or former students in the military service. But we hope that we never again will have to report anything like the number of Ohioans who served in World War II. More than 5,000 alumni and former students were in the various services, some 250 are known to have made the supreme sacrifice. We cite that record with pride in the part Ohioans played in World War II, but we hope it will not be repeated.

IN THESE DAYS of international strife, distrust and disunity even among allies, it is gratifying to record such an event as the visit of our foreign students to Lancaster and Hudson for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

It is particularly pleasing in the case of the Lancaster visit. This is not to be taken as a derogation of the hospitality of the people of Hudson. But in the latter community it has long been a practice to have as guests foreign students from various colleges and universities.

The Lancaster event seems especially commendable because it was a pioneering experiment in international relations at the "people" or individual level. It was carried to a successful conclusion by men and women of a typical American community—men and women motivated by good will and an honest desire to understand better the people of other nations.

Quite possibly more international understanding and good will were achieved by the people of Lancaster and their guests in their two-day association than in months of diplomatic double-talk by the representatives of the Americans and the foreign students.

Foreign Students Visit Ohio Communities

YOU WON'T FIND it scheduled in the general catalog, but what might reasonably be termed a "course in international understanding" was offered by the University during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

The "course," offered on a more limited scale annually for a long time, was expanded this year. Each year for a long time, Ohio University's foreign students have been guests in Athens homes for the holidays, but this year 21 of them were guests of citizens of Lancaster for Thanksgiving and five others were invited to Hudson, home of Western Reserve Academy near Akron, where they were Christmas guests in homes of that community.

It's difficult to define teacher and taught in this venture in international goodwill, for both the foreign students and their American hosts are vocal in their praise of how much they learned about each other.

A Japanese student who is returning to Japan next month avowed he would never forget the Lancaster people. "It's a wonderful experience . . . I want to come back here," he declared.

Mayor Harold Brandon, father of University Senior Richard Brandon, and other Lancaster citizens expressed pleasure with the success of the affair. Ten Lancaster homes were opened to the foreign students, who were guests for something really unique in their experience — an American Thanksgiving with the traditional dinner.

In addition, four Lancaster service clubs, Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, and Exchange, joined to sponsor a banquet honoring the foreign students. The visitors were taken on a conducted tour of Plant I of the Anchor Hocking Glass Co., the city's largest business and a world leader in the glass industry. The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce arranged the tour. Tours of historical spots in the city and county were also on the two-day agenda.

Students who were Lancaster guests included 19 men and two women. The two women were Olga Prado, of Guatemala, and Rebecca Datz, Brazil.

The men: Karl Lichtenegger, Austria; Peter Lhotzky and Helmit Weiler, Germany; Rafael Moreno, Colombia; Daniel Olchanski, France; Igor Shwabe and Anwar Y. Nissan, Iraq; Eudaldo Cabrera, Cuba; Rene Aybar, Dominican Republic; Ryszard Lysakowski, Poland; Wim Floris Van Muyden and Roland de Wit, Curacao; Khattar Philip Rah-

The Christmas guests at Hudson were Philip Chen and Peter Chen (no relation), China; Roland de Wit, Curacao; Angelos Adam, Greece; Duk-Hi Lee, Korea.

The Lancaster visit was planned by Dr. Victor Whitehouse, faculty adviser for foreign students. Dr. Whitehouse suggested the visit to Dick Brandon several months ago. The mayor's son presented the idea to his father, who was enthusiastically for it.

PLANS ARE SHAPING up for the Religion in Life Week, scheduled for the week of February 25. Planners of the religious event, last held here in 1946, hope it will be the biggest and most important campus affair of the year.

A student Committee of One Hundred is working with University officers and local church people in scheduling and coordinating the program of prayer, lectures, discussions, and consultations. Visiting religious leaders announced for the week are:

Walter H. Judd, congressman, medical missionary, Mayo Clinic associate; J. Oscar Lee, executive secretary of the Department of Race Relations of the Federal Council of Churches and an outstanding Negro minister; Charles Tudor Leber, executive secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.; Arthur Cushman McGiffert, president of the Chicago Theological Seminary and a World War I chaplain.

Raymond John Seegar, chief of the Mechanics Division of the Research Department of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oak, Md., and a participant in the Bikini Atom Bomb test; J. Maurice Trimmer, pastor Fifth Ave. Baptist Church, Huntington W. Va.; Mildred Winston, member of the staff of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church.

THE HOME ECONOMICS CLUB entertained the South Central Region Economics Clubs at a regional convention this month. Students and faculty advisers from schools in Southern Ohio were guests of the University.

Mrs. Fred Luchs, '27, a trustee of the University, was the principal speaker for the convention, which carried the theme "Homemaking—Your Future."

ALBERT A. WOLDMAN, director of the Department of Industrial Relations, State of Ohio, will deliver the principal address at the annual Ohio University Lincoln Day convocation February 13. Mr. Woldman, a lawyer, writer, and Lincoln scholar, is nationally known for his biographical work, Lawyer Lincoln, which has been acclaimed as the best book dealing with Lincoln's career as a lawyer and his Constitutional problems as Civil War president. He is vice-president of the Lincoln Association of Ohio, and is the author of a forthcoming comprehensive work on United States history. Woldman is former member of the faculty at John Marshall Law School and is listed in Who's Who in America.

IMPORTANT SERVICE WAS given by members of the University Radio Club in the storm emergency this winter. Working with other "ham" operators in the area and in an Ohio network of amateur stations and a national military network, the University group provided the Athens area contact with the "rest of the world" when overloaded conventional communications systems were hard-pressed to handle all the traffic the emergency thrust upon them.

Members of the Radio Club, each operating his own ham station, who participated included: Dr. D. B. Green, professor of electrical engineering; Robert Mager, '49, M.A. '50, acting instructor in psychology; students Armond Rist and Jean Jolkovski. Working with them was Roger Jones, Jr., '40, Athens attorney and former member of the club.

During a virtually continuous three-day watch, they sent a variety of messages for the Red Cross and for stranded travelers, including many soldiers, sailors, and marines snowbound in Athens and unable to reach their posts. They also sent word into all parts of Ohio and into New York City of the postponement of school opening after the Thanksgiving recess.

Student Jolkovski, a senior in electrical engineering and Radio Club president, is shown in the picture. For a time during the emergency, his was the only station in touch with Washington, D. C., and other points east.

FIFTEEN MEMBERS OF the John P. Robbins Squadron of the Arnold Air Society represented the University at the second annual national convention of the airmen's organization, held in St. Louis.

The University contingent led in many of the convention discussions and was mentioned as one of the four strongest squadrons in the national organization.

Major John F. Edwards and Capt. James A. Williams, both of the Air ROTC unit on campus, flew the conventionists from Dayton to St. Louis in a C-47 furnished by the U. S. Air Force.

AN OIL PORTRAIT of Dr. Walter S. Gamertsfelder, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Graduate College, a former president of the University, and a member of the faculty more than 20 years, has been accepted by Ohio University as a gift from his faculty associates and friends.

President Baker accepted the portrait on behalf of the Board of Trustees. It has been hung in historic Cutler Hall.

ELEVEN OHIO UNIVERSITY employees with 20 or more years of continuous service were honored at the annual Christmas party for non-academic employees. Those awarded 20-year pins were Goldie Carsey, Sadie McDaniel, Marie Dixon and Elizabeth McCoy, girls' dormitory dining room workers; William Mansfield, janitor; Ernest Pritts and Dale Hart, night watchmen; C. J. Ailstock, bus driver; Leo Frost, electrician, and O. C. Chapman, heating plant engineer.

TEN UNDERGRADUATES and three recent graduates were elected to Phi Beta Kappa by Lambda of Ohio chapter this winter.

The alumni named were Harold Schwendeman, Lowell, Edward Conrad, Grafton, and Geraldine Evans Van Dyke, Columbus, all of the Class of 1950.

Students were: Carolyn Herbert, Athens; William Slany, Cleveland; Kathryn Ann Johnson, Nelsonville; Daniel Lawrence, Parma; Dan Dwelle, Eriesside; William Earley, East Cleveland; Boris Pukay, Yorkville; Edward Taylor, Glenford; Rose Marie Peschan, Rochester, N. Y.; Raymond Hurd, Canfield.

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa requires a point average of 3.45 for seniors and 3.65 for juniors. Also, 75 percent of a candidate's work must be in non-professional or non-vocational fields.

THE DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH recently sponsored a public lecture by Dr. F. H. Stocking, assistant to the president of Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. The widely-known lecturer and scholar spoke on the topic "Poetry as Knowledge."

THE DEPARTMENT OF AIR Science and Tactics has announced a new opportunity for juniors, seniors, and graduate students to receive Air Force commissions upon graduation.

The new plan provides that upper-classmen who are veterans or who have completed the two-year basic ROTC course may begin advanced training next semester, go to summer camp, and receive a commission upon graduation. For seniors this means one semester and summer camp, for juniors three semesters and summer camp.

The offer is limited to students in fields specified as suitable for the communications, aircraft maintenance, engineering, armament, or air installation needs of the military. Students can qualify if their major is in engineering, chemistry, biology, bacteriology, physics, radiology, biochemistry, or any technical course leading to a degree in any branch of engineering.

From the President's Office

JANUARY - 1951

The New Year is the time when individuals, institutions and nations may well "take stock" and review frankly their strengths as well as their weaknesses. Never was there greater need for this than now, a time when peace hangs in delicate balance, when world chaos seems inevitable. In knowledge there is unlimited strength, and only in a true appraisal of our intentions and our policies can we have strength and succeed.

Today there is great uncertainty and pessimism in the minds of many—we fear the future. This fear can best be met if we are fair, just, understanding and courageous toward all problems and have "good will toward men." These abiding principles, these spiritual values endure today as in the past and will play a deciding role in world history.

We cannot, of course, discount the dangers in our times. With the knowledge that we are right, with constant study of our policies and intentions, let us face the new year supported by unwavering hope based on our spiritual and material strength. A mere glance at an inventory of our resources reassures us all.

Our material strength consists of an educated and responsible citizenry, friends, military might, natural resources, factories, transportation facilities, executive and production know-how, and a skilled, intelligent, and free labor force.

Our spiritual strength, our greatest asset, can be measured in terms of history, our good will toward all, faith in ourselves, our objectives, our love of freedom, and a thorough knowledge of our obligations under freedom. The key to the maintaining of this spiritual strength is a deep sense of personal responsibility and the ability to comprehend and apply this responsibility to our problems.

Here at the personal level colleges and universities play an important part. They offer their students something in addition to technical and professional skills and perform their greatest service to students and our world when they teach them their responsibilities in a free society. We at Ohio University try to teach each student that this is his world, his government, his social problems, his atomic energy. Through a complete realization of personal responsibility in all activities, the individual will participate more effectively in our democracy and make that democracy work.

We may not be able to prevent war; none of us knows what is in the minds of those who hate democracy. But by stressing the responsibility of the individual, the principles of freedom and justice, we can exercise to the greatest extent whatever preventive powers we possess. And if peace is beyond our power, our sense of personal and individual responsibility will prove the bulwark of this nation and free people everywhere in the trying, tragic days of war.

The power of ideas and truth will in the end be greater than A bombs or H bombs. This means that our policies should not be tough but wise. In wisdom and knowledge lie survival and a peaceful world.

Let us enter 1951 with deep belief in our principles and faith in ourselves.

John C. Baker

Campus Clippings

By Betty J. Bellick, '51

Hi, and happy '51. One month of the new year has almost by-passed us, but we at OU don't have time to glance at the calendar—final exams are here. The New Year's resolutions we made are getting a little tarnished and frayed around the edges and everyone is looking forward to the beginning of a new semester.

I'm beginning to feel slightly nostalgic with the thought of June so near. Remember your last semester at OU? The four years seemed to have disappeared in a maze of classes, parties, dances, open houses and final exams—and then graduation.

But today there is a feeling of sobriety among the students. When you ask one of the fellows what his plans are after graduation, he may answer, "I'm going into the army," or, "I've enlisted."

If you could eavesdrop on a group of girls talking in one of their rooms after hours, you might be slightly surprised at the trend of the conversation. Dates and homework are not the only topics discussed today—the Korean situation and world news are the bases for many midnight "bull sessions."

Some of the girls are thinking of enlisting in the WAVES or WACS after graduation. As one undergraduate expressed it, "I wouldn't be satisfied to stay here in college and know that fellows are in Korea dying." She wasn't sure whether she would enlist in a women's branch of the service, but she stated that she would do something toward the war effort if the situation became more serious than it is.

* * *

In this time of strife and uncertainty, it is interesting to think about the international students on the OU campus. If a stranger to Athens happened to wander into the basement of the Methodist Church on a Tuesday evening when the International Club is meeting, he might think he had discovered a miniature United Nations. When discussing world politics, drinking a coke and munching cake, or singing "Stand Up and Cheer," who takes time to remember that the boy sitting across from you is French, the one sitting next to you is American and the girl two seats down is Chinese.

Maybe in some future generation the world will settle complacently in its orbit—and peoples of all countries will discover that peace is so valuable a commodity to life that understanding rather than war is the basis for preserving it.

THE JUDGE WELCH HOME

. . . before Lindley Hall

With the Faculty

■ Prof. Arthur H. (Jack) Rhoads, '29, director of intramural athletics, was a speaker at the year's-end meeting of the College Physical Education Association in Philadelphia. Professor Rhoads' topic was "Problems Arising in Intramural Sports." It was based on the result of a questionnaire sent to 70 colleges and universities in the central United States and included a discussion of variations in touch football rules.

■ Prof. George Starr Lasher, director of the School of Journalism, and Joseph Dando, '30x, assistant to the dean of men, attended this year's National Interfraternity Conference in New York City. They were accompanied by Robert Becker, Cleveland Heights senior, representative of Ohio University Interfraternity Council. Professor Lasher was in charge of press relations for the conference. While in New York, he was honored by the College Fraternity Editors Association, which presented him with a sterling silver plaque in recognition of his 25 years as editor of the Theta Chi magazine. He became the fifth editor to be so honored by the Association.

■ Dean E. J. Taylor, Prof. P. H. Black, L. F. Hicks, and G. A. Weinert represented the University at the convention of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in New York City. Professor Black presented a discussion on "Dynamic Loading of Chain Drives."

CONSTRUCTION OF THE south wing of Lindley Hall is getting underway. The addition will accommodate approximately 120 students, bringing the total number of students in this residence hall for women to approximately 385.

Lindley, the three other large women's halls, and the cottages now provide accommodations for almost 950 of the University's approximately 1500 women students.

Expanding Lindley Hall bears little resemblance to the stately 19th Century home that once stood on the Court Street site. Shown in the picture is the Judge Welch home, which was razed when Lindley was built.

Judge John Welch, as well as his home, played a part in the history of the University. One of the ablest lawyers in Ohio, onetime member of the State Supreme Court, Ohio senator, congressman, Athens County Common Pleas Court judge and prosecuting attorney, the judge studied law with Prof. Joseph Dana, 1822, A.M. '25. A son and several grandchildren attended and graduated from the University.

■ Dr. F. H. Kreckler, professor of zoology, and Dr. Rush Elliott, '24, professor of anatomy, attended the December council meeting of the Ohio Academy of Science in Columbus. Dr. Kreckler is secretary of the Ohio Junior Academy of Science and Dr. Elliott is secretary and member of the executive committee of the Ohio Academy of Science.

Faculty Holds Conference On Improvement of Instruction

With opening session chairman Dr. H. T. Houf observing that "students are the reason for existence of a university," Ohio University's teachers met recently for a two-day self-examination of their methods, objectives, and results.

This Conference on the Improvement of Instruction featured the annual Lecture on Better Teaching, given this year by Dean Russell M. Cooper, of the University of Minnesota. Also on the two-day agenda were a talk by President Baker, open forums, and panel discussions. Students as well as faculty participated in the forums and panels.

In his opening address, President Baker outlined the history of the Conference, pointing to the series of annual lectures by distinguished educators from other universities. The president told his colleagues that "good instruction is our skill, our stock-in-trade, and our profession." He said good instruction and its components are recognized by the student after he leaves college.

Dr. Baker said that two questions he likes to ask college graduates are what did they get out of college and what would they do if they returned to college.

"Almost always," declared Dr. Baker, "the answer to the first question is 'we were inspired by good teachers.'" The president finds that graduates say that if they were to return to college they would "take work under the toughest professors, regardless of their fields, if they were good teachers."

President Baker asserted that there must be a personal interest in each student in his class if a teacher is to be effective. He said that the small school and the small town help bring about a desirable intimacy between students and teachers.

From previous knowledge and from what he had observed during the two-day conference, Dean Cooper concluded that "Ohio University has a genuine vitality and concern for the job of college teaching."

Dr. Cooper, assistant dean of the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts at Minnesota, had noted in his opening lecture that Ohio University is obviously "in the vanguard of the growing movement which is concerned with how to do a better job of college teaching."

The Minnesotan said great teachers are distinguishable by an ability to motivate the student to learn through the teacher and, paradoxically, make the student learn independently of the teacher's motivation. The teacher, said Dean Cooper, must motivate and, in the same process, mature the student.

The Minnesota educator, who is in charge of the work of some 8,000 freshmen and sophomores, said the college teacher is charged with the development of "a sound judgment" in students. He defined this sound judgment as a composite of: (1) sound handling of essential information, an ability to use reference and research rather than relying on memorization, and trained reason as well as an acquisition of information; (2) development of a sense of values, since decisions must be made on fragmentary evidence.

Quoting H. G. Wells' observation that "... civilization is a race between education and catastrophe," Dean Cooper declared that teachers, because of their vital positions should undertake periodic "cooperative re-examinations."

In a resume of what other colleges and universities are doing, the guest speaker underscored Dr. Baker's remark about the need of teachers having a personal interest in each student. "Individualization of instruction" was termed "a new emphasis" by Dean Cooper. Surveys have shown, he said, that the formal lecture is decreasing as a classroom technique in favor of class discussions and the case study approach. Library research is growing as an instructional method, said the speaker.

The three panel discussions of the Conference were: "Identifying and Clarifying the Purposes of Instruction," with Dr. A. C. LaFollette the chairman; "Improving Classroom Instruction," Dr. George E. Hill, chairman; and "Evaluating the Results of Instruction," Dean George W. Starcher, '26, chairman. Student contributions to the panel discussions were notable in the reports to the final session of the Conference. Many teachers voiced the hope that greater student participation could be arranged for next year's conference.

The general committee for the Conference was headed by Dean W. S. Gamertsfelder, of the College of Arts and Sciences and the Graduate College. Serving with him were Dr. H. E. Benz, Dr. John F. Cady, Dr. John E. Edwards, '30, A.M. '32, Dr. H. T. Houf, Dr. Karl H. Krauskopf, Dean E. J. Taylor, Dr. Edith A. Wray, Dr. L. C. Staats, '26, A.M. '31, and Librarian Frank N. Jones.

Former Director of School of Music Is Named Professor Emeritus

C. C. Robinson, head of the School of Music from 1922 to 1947, was recently named professor emeritus of voice. Professor Robinson retired from the faculty last August. After reaching the age (65) when administrators in state schools are required to resign from administrative positions, he continued to teach and in 1948-49 directed the University Chorus.

A native of New York City, Professor Robinson began his 42-year teaching career at the University of Oklahoma. From there he went to Pennsylvania State College, where he was head of music instruction from 1912 to 1922.

Professor Robinson received his Bachelor of Music degree from the Holden

Conservatory and his master's from the Cincinnati Conservatory. He also attended Columbia and studied with teachers Frederick W. Root and Emil Liebling in Chicago. Study in four fields—voice, piano, composition, and organ—also took him to London and to Randall, N. Y.

Professor Robinson is nationally known as a teacher and a director of choral groups. His some 100 published compositions have been performed by glee clubs and choruses of note across the nation.

During World War I he was executive of the War Camp Com-

On The Alumni Front

December activities among the organized alumni groups were, as usual, fewer than in the fall and spring seasons. The month saw the organization of a local center in a neighboring state, however, and the scheduled meetings of some of the groups that meet six or more times a year.

Parkersburg

Approximately 50 West Virginians attended an organization meeting and dinner at the Chancellor Hotel in Parkersburg on December 13. The meeting, planned by a committee headed by William S. Beckwith, '27, was addressed by President John C. Baker of the University.

Other speakers, appearing briefly on the program, were Alumni Secretary Clark Williams, '21, Assistant Secretary Martin Hecht, '46, and Freshman Football Coach Frank Richey.

The musical contributions of three undergraduates were received with genuine acclaim. Helen Ledford, Loveland, soprano, and Robert Luecke, Ft. Thomas, Ky., baritone, accompanied by Lyndall Wooley, Athens, presented a program of solos and duets.

Following the new pattern for local alumni club organizations, the West Virginians elected George R. Breckenridge, '38, president, with Mrs. John L. Thorn, named vice president for the Women's Club division, and Henry M. Oates, '27, vice president for the Bobcat Club division. Grace P. Turner, '46, and John L. Thorn, '50, will serve as secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the two sub-divisions. W. B. Poling, '24x, and Beth Winstead are members-at-large of the executive committee.

Cleveland

The Christmas Dance, sponsored jointly by the Ohio University Women's Club and the Bobcat Club of Cleveland, was held on the night of December 21 at the University Club.

A decided social success, it was attended by undergraduates of the Cleveland area home for the holidays as well as alumni. Music for the 10-to-2 dancing was provided by Ferd Wagner's Band.

Mrs. Robert Young (LUCILLE BANASIK, '43), who were among the Women's Club representatives on the dance committee. Hamilton C. Laing, '40, was chairman for the men.

Cleveland Men

The Bobcats will have Head Football Coach Carroll Widdoes as their principal guest and speaker at a dinner meeting at the Cleveland Athletic Club on January 21. They have reserved a block of tickets for members for the Western

First Vice President Ralph Frey, '39, will succeed Sherman W. Peters, '41, as head Bobcat when the latter moves to California this month.

THE OHIO UNIVERSITY FUND

Think what it would mean to the University if each and every one of us were to contribute annually to the Ohio University Fund, Inc.—even if we gave only one dollar each.

Cleveland Women

An evening get-together, a departure from the usual luncheons and teas, appears on the calendar of the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland for January. A report of this first event of the new year will appear in the next issue. On February 10 the alumnae will hear Laurence G. Knecht, a Cleveland attorney, discuss "Wills" at the luncheon at Higbee's Lounge.

Youngstown Women

Early in the year activities of the Youngstown Women's Club include the organization's Birthday Anniversary Party on January 27 and a Benefit Bridge Party in February. Mrs. Eula Mahan Doerschuk, '19, will chairmen the first event and Gertrude Maier, '23, the second.

Akron Women

The December 23 meeting of the Akron Association of Ohio University Women, a Guest Day Tea, was held at the home of Mrs. Carl B. Adamson (LUCILE RAE, '22x) in Cuyahoga Falls. Mrs. Adamson was aided in her entertaining by five assistant hostesses.

The program consisted of a Christmas story by Mrs. Harry Long and a vocal solo by Mrs. George T. Bescoff (MARY ANN MCKAY, '41).

On January 6, Mrs. David W. Hardman (LUCILLE HOWARD, '42) will be hostess to the club at her Akron home. Mrs. M. U. Lynch will address the group on "Help Them Help Themselves."

February 3 will find the club members at the home of Mrs. E. E. Eller (LEILA BORDEN, '22x) with Miss Mabel Pullen, an exchange teacher from England as the featured speaker.

Reunion of 1941 Basketeers

Members of the 1941 varsity basketball squad and their wives have been invited by the Alumni Association and the Athletic Department to return to the campus for a reunion on February 17.

The visitors will be guests at the Bowling Green Ohio U. basketball game and a pre-game dinner.

Coached by William J. "Dutch" Trautwein, now associate professor of athletics, the brilliant 1941 team won 18 of its 22 regular-season games and advanced to the finals in a thrilling post-season National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Members of the so-called "Big Six" of the 1941 squad were Frank Baumholtz, Harry McSherry, Vernon Deinzer, James Snyder, Carl Ott, and Charles Blickensderfer. All are living and expected at the reunion except Blickensderfer, a World War II veteran who died in Crile Hospital, Cleveland, last June 30.

"Jim" Snyder is now head coach of basketball at his alma mater.

Alumnus Is Partner In Unique Business

Wilfred Konneker, '43, M.S. '47, is half of a two-way partnership in a St. Louis business venture believed to be the first of its kind in the nation.

The Ohioan is co-proprietor of Nuclear Research and Development, Inc., an enterprise concerned with furnishing atomic medicines to hospitals on a commercial basis. Physicist Konneker and his partner, Kennard Morganstern, have been told that they are operating the nation's first complete commercial isotopes service for hospitals. The young scientists formed their unique partnership while students at Washington U., from which Mr. Konneker received his doctorate last June.

Briefly, the business is concerned with receiving atoms from the atomic energy plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and then transferring them in medicinal form to hospitals in the St. Louis area.

The "hot stuff" received from Oak Ridge is a tasteless, colorless liquid which comes in tiny glass bottles wrapped in glass fiber. The wrapped bottles are shipped in a lead cylinder with walls one and one-half inches thick and the cylinder is contained in a foot-square wooden box marked "Danger—Radioactive Material."

When these delicate bundles are received at the store, they are uncased gingerly, the wrappings are checked for radioactivity, and the liquid transferred to a bigger bottle and diluted with water for greater safety. When the liquid is being transferred to the larger bottle, the smaller bottle is washed carefully because the atoms, like invisible syrup, cling to the glass.

All these dealings with the "hot"

from the atom, a new venture material are handled with tongs behind lead walls. The scientists see what they are doing by means of mirrors so that they need not bend over the wall. Then when a hospital calls for, say, radioactive iodine the requested dosage is sucked from the container behind the wall by a remote control arrangement, placed in a glass container, wrapped in glass wool, placed in another glass container, and put in a lead safe, which is then strapped into a car for movement to the hospital.

"Hot" materials have proved themselves in extensive experimentation in gauging and relieving hyperthyroid conditions, locating brain tumors, and treating—though not necessarily curing—some cases of thyroid, bladder, and skin cancers.

Medical men are convinced that this is only the beginning of a new era in atomic medicine.

Partners Konneker and Morganstern share that conviction. The Ohioan reported that prior to the business venture, he turned down several jobs, some of them offering as much as $7,000 a year. The business is strictly a private enterprise, the two men furnishing the several thousands of dollars needed as capital. Much of the equipment in their "store" they built themselves. They are also building the specialized equipment needed by the hospitals to administer the atomic medicines. The two men are serving as consultants for a large hospital equipment manufacturer who will handle the equipment they build. A fellow-student at Washington U., who for the past two years has been working on the cyclotron at that university, has been hired to help with the technical end of the business, especially the building of machinery. Mrs. Konneker handles the office for the young corporation.

The holder of two degrees from Ohio University was called by the infantry following his graduation in 1943. But the Army soon sent him to Michigan State College to learn electrical engineering. From Lansing, he was sent on detached service to the Atomic Energy Commission, first at Oak Ridge, then at the University of Chicago, and finally at a laboratory which the Monsanto Chemical Co. was running for the Manhattan project at Dayton.

For more than two years he worked as a $78-a-month sergeant side by side with high-salaried civilian specialists.

He returned to Ohio University following the war to earn a master's degree. He did his master's research and thesis under Dr. John E. Edwards, '30, A.M. '32, building a new type coincidence analyzer for detecting Geiger counter pulses which occur at the same instant of time.

First Alumni Korea Casualty Reported

First casualty among alumni to be reported from the Korean War is Second Lt. Richard T. Replinger, '50. Lieutenant Replinger, a distinguished military graduate with the June Class, was taken to an Army hospital in Osaka, Japan, after suffering a back wound and frostbite while serving with the Seventh Infantry Division.

Lieutenant Replinger, a native of Schenectady, N. Y., wrote his wife, Betty, who resides in Athens, that only three of the 40 men in his platoon survived when caught in the Chinese Communist breakthrough and surrounded four days before being rescued. They were evacuated from the Changjin Reservoir area by air, he wrote.

The Replingers have two children, Rickey, 4, and Ronald, 2.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By Jack Hostutler '50

OFF TO THEIR MOST auspicious start in several campaigns, the Ohio University Bobcat basketballers closed the 1950 part of the 1950-51 season with a record of five wins and two losses and the most optimistic prospect of a winning season for the first time since 1946-47 when a 13 win, 10 loss record was turned in.

With seven contests scheduled for January, including three Mid-American Conference tilts, the first month of the new year is a very important one for the upcoming Bobcats. The OU boys need only two more victories to better the number of wins of the past two seasons, which have been dark indeed for Ohio followers. The 1948-49 squad turned in a 6 won-16 loss record while last year's final results showed 6 wins and 14 losses.

The Bobcats are scheduled to meet Western Reserve on the home floor Jan. 5 in their first conference game, while the Redcats will be seeking their second league victory, having beaten Miami 63 to 57 earlier in the season. Strangely enough, the Miami victory is the only one in seven starts for the Redcats who are undergoing one of their poorest seasons. Following the Reserve game, the Bobcats journey to Marshall College on Jan. 8 and to Miami Jan. 12. On Jan. 15 they meet Dayton and on the 19th Western Michigan, both on the home court. Following a game with Muskingum at New Concord on the 23rd, they return home on the 27th to take on Cedarville College in the final game of the month.

After their 57 to 45 victory in the season's opener over Marietta College, the Bobcats avenged another defeat of last year by downing the Kent State Golden Flashes 61 to 46 in a game in which they jumped off to a quick lead and were never pushed. In the first of five straight road games, the cagers journeyed to Delaware where they trounced the Ohio Wesleyan "Battling Bishops" 75 to 57, despite the 27 points scored by Wesleyan's ace center Jud Millhon.

Although they were trailing 34 to 21 at halftime against the University of Akron Zippers, the Bobcats rallied in the second half for 36 points while holding the Zips to 18 for a 57 to 52 victory, and their fourth straight win.

Youngstown College broke the OU victory bubble when they handed the Bobcats their first setback with a sizzling shooting attack as they connected for better than 40 percent of their shots to upset the Bobcats 78 to 64.

OU drew Bowling Green for the first game of the Kent State Invitational Tournament and dropped a 74 to 69 decision to the Falcons, although Ohio led at the halfway mark 41 to 38. The following night the Bobcats met and downed Kent State for the second time

OHIO'S BETTS HAS BALL
... Kent's players have Betts

53 to 48, although making one of their poorest showings.

Elwood Sparks, junior guard from Portsmouth and high scorer for the Bobcats last year, is also the number-one pointgetter in the first seven games with 81 markers, just two more than Glen Hursey, junior guard from Glenford. Forward Jack Betts from East Liverpool holds down the number three spot with 73 points and is the top man in shooting percentages with a .403 average. The top man at the free throw line among those who have seen action in every game is Forward Dave Leightenheimer from Portsmouth who has connected on 14 of 17 charity tosses, although Vic Polosky from Canton in four games made 8 out of 9 attempts.

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S BOBCATS lost the final three events and their initial wrestling match of the season to Bowling Green's Falcons, 15-13.

Ahead 13-9, with the 175-pound and heavyweight divisions left on the card, the Bobcats needed a decision in either event to win the meet, but couldn't make the raffle.

Bowling Green's Ray Floriani defeated OU's Walt Bednarsky, 4-0, getting two points in the second round and two on time advantage, and Hart Hursh, the Bee Gees' 260-pounder, beat Ohio's Fred Cibula, 170.

Hursh, who was puffing heavily at the finish, scored points in the first two rounds and got two more for time to blank Cibula, 6-0.

The abrupt finish took some of the steam out of the two pins scored by Ohio matmen, wiping out a 6-0 lead the Falcons piled up by winning the first two matches on decisions.

Bill Miller, the Bobcats' 136-pounder, pinned Gene Leyden in 29 seconds of the first heat to get his team five points. Then, after John Suchadolski of OU won over Herb Wyandt, 7-5, in the 145 pound bout, Bobcat Captain Scott Leeseburg put the clamp on Jim Rea in 1:16 of the first round in the 155 division.

Leeseburg's victory ran the Ohio bulge to 13-6 in match points, but it melted quickly. With Bill Rehark, 165, of Bowling Green downing Bill Cigey, 7-1, the Falcons went on to snare the next two and the meet.

In the 121 pound class, Jack Morimitso downed Dave Weber, and in the 128 group, Dave Seiler whipped Lou Lenart, to give Bowling Green its first two wins.

The matmen will meet what will probably be their toughest competition of the season Jan. 6 as they journey to Toledo University to meet the powerful Rockets' grapplers. In Toledo, the OU boys will be up against some the top collegiate wrestlers in the country. Three of the Toledo men are undefeated in intercollegiate wrestling.

Three other meets on the January card, all at home, offer little encouragement for the OU wrestlers as they meet West Virginia, Waynesburg and the junior varsity from Ohio State. Each of these schools has a better than average squad that will require the Bobcats to go all out for victory.

OHIO UNIVERSITY FORMALLY opened its new $425,000 Natatorium with a special ceremony Sunday, Jan. 7. The highlight of the program was a special diving and swimming exhibition by members of Ohio State's championship swimming team which made OU followers sigh in envy as the boys from the Big Ten school really gave a demonstration of what to do when you get in a swimming pool and on a diving board.

Included in the demonstration group were Jack Taylor, who is NCAA and Big Ten 1500-meter and 150-yard backstroke champ and also holds the Big Ten record in the 440-yard freestyle; Bill Sonner, NCAA 100-yard backstroke; Dick Cleveland, a freshman, who is National AAU Outdoor 100-meter freestyle champ; Joe Marino, National Outdoor Diving Champ; Bob Clotworthy, National Junior tower diving champ; Al Coffee, Florida State AAU Diving Champ and Hobbie Billingsly, who was NCAA and Big Ten diving champ in 1945 and although still enrolled at Ohio State is part time swim coach at Kenyon College, which incidentally is the next swim opponent for the Bobcats. This group was brought here by Mike Peppe, OSU's head coach who has won world fame as a swimming mentor.

Also included in the afternoon's program were talks by Ohio University President John C. Baker; Gordon K. Bush, chairman of the University's Board of Trustees Building Committee; Athletic Director Carroll C. Widdoes and Oscar L. Thomas, director of the Natatorium and head swimming coach for OU. Vincent L. Jukes of the University faculty was master of ceremonies.

Ohio University's new Natatorium was completed last August and was first put into use with the beginning of the fall semester. It is one of the finest buildings of its type in Ohio with a regulation AAU and intercollegiate style pool and complete facilities.

THE BOBCATS SECOND swimming meet of the season and the first in the home pool which was scheduled for Dec. 9 with Xavier University was cancelled when the Musketeers discontinued the sport and Coach Thomas was unable to find another school to fill the gap at such a late date.

Another meet was added to the schedule with the booking of Davis and Elkins College of Elkins, W. Va., for the first meet in the new Natatorium on Jan. 20.

Prior to this home meet the OU mer-men will meet Kenyon at Gambier on Jan. 12. The Bowling Green swimmers will come to Athens Jan. 23 as will the Detroit University tankmen on the 27th.

ANOTHER CANCELLATION of a scheduled athletic event was the freshman basketball game with Marietta College. Due to the "Big Snow" Frosh Coach Bob Wren postponed the game as his squad had had only three days practice prior to that date. The first scheduled intercollegiate game for the Bobkittens is against the Marshall College yearlings on Jan. 8, as a preliminary to the varsity game between the two schools. Two other tilts are on tap for the OU frosh in January. They will meet Dayton at home on the 15th and journey to Muskingum on Jan. 23.

AL SCHEIDER, JUNIOR TACKLE from Cleveland, walked off with all the individual honors of OU's 1950 football squad and got a good start toward doing the same in 1951.

Scheider received a first string berth on the All-Mid-American Conference first team for the second straight year and was named to the All-Ohio second team after receiving honorable mention on last year's squad. In addition to these honors Scheider was awarded a trophy as the "most outstanding player" on the 1950 squad and at the annual football banquet, honoring the 1950 varsity and freshman gridders, was elected captain of the 1951 squad by his teammates.

In being named to the all-conference team, Al stopped a complete monopoly of Cincinnati and Miami which each placed five men on the squad.

The "most outstanding player" award was presented by the Ashland Oil Company, which sponsored radio broadcasts of all the Bobcat football games. The selection was made by a vote of broadcasters who announced the games throughout the year. John Bedosky, Cleveland; Quinn Stumpf, Copley; and Al Dunn, Urichsville, were named as runners-up for the award and all received certificates of recognition.

Scheider, who strangely enough managed to win only one letter playing high school football, has been a standout at OU for the past two years. Although not especially big for a tackle weighing only 195 pounds, he is extremely fast and agile and has shown an uncanny ability to follow plays much to the dismay of the opposition. He has definitely been the standout on defense for OU this year and has more than held his own on offense.

The 195 pound tackle has been rated by many observers as the greatest OU tackle since Chet Adams, now of professional football fame.

After graduation from West Tech High School, Cleveland, in January, 1946, Al spent 18 months in the U. S. Cavalry and played with the First Cavalry Division football team in 1946 while serving in Tokyo, Japan. He was named to play with the Japan All-Stars in the Rice Bowl, Jan. 1, 1947, in Yokohama, Japan.

Upon discharge, he entered Ohio University and was the only member of the 1947 squad to win his varsity letter as a freshman.

Beside playing football, Al, who is majoring in Mechanical Engineering, is treasurer of the OU Engineers Club and holds the same office in Varsity O.

When questioned as to his desire to play professional football, Al's only comment was "maybe."

Al, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Scheider of 602 Trebisky Rd., South Euclid, has a brother Bill, sophomore at OU, who won his first letter this year as an end.

THE FIRST EFFECTS OF THE current world emergency on Ohio University athletics were felt on Jan. 3 as the student body returned to the campus following the Christmas vacation. Six athletes were among the more than 20 male students to withdraw from school to answer the call to arms either by enlistment, reservist being called to active duty, or by the old familiar "greeting" during World War II, i. e., drafted.

Enlistment in the Air Force took three of the six athletes while one volunteered for the Navy, another was called to active duty with his National Guard unit and the sixth man was drafted.

The list included one varsity and two freshman footballers and three freshman cage hopefuls.

Nick Fogoros, number one right end with the 1950 varsity football squad, was one of three to choose the Air Force. He was the leading pass catcher on the grid squad this year, snagging 16 passes for 177 yards and one touchdown.

Members of the freshman football team were halfback Robert Freriks from Crooksville who was called to active duty in the National Guard and halfback Larry Rupp, Wellston, who enlisted in the Navy.

Of the three freshman basketballers, Bill Brown, 6 foot, 6 inch center, from Glouster, and Dick Danko, 6 foot, 4 inch center, from Shaker Heights, enlisted in the Air Force while Guard Cliff Whisman from Middletown was inducted.

PROFESSOR GUSTAVSON

... no dull persons, places, or events

As interpreted by Prof. Carl Gustavson, history contains no dull persons, places, or events. He gives meaning and form to the triumphant, disastrous, bright, dark, and endless story of man—his earnest and selfless aspirations and his machinations.

History comes alive in the classroom of Dr. Gustavson, associate professor of European history. Armies march, governments fall, and heads topple understandably, and in a manner that elicits classroom enthusiasm from even those students who "take" European history only because it happens to be for them a required academic dosage.

But few students match and none exceed the zeal Carl Gustavson has for his subject. The study of history has dominated his literate life, from grade school through high school and nine years of college that culminated in a doctor of philosophy degree at the age of 27.

Prior to receiving his doctorate from Cornell in 1942, Professor Gustavson earned a master's degree from the University of Illinois and an A.B. from Augustana College. Before joining the Ohio University faculty in 1945, he had taught at Lake Forest College and had been a Naval instructor at Miami University. He has since had summer assignments as visiting professor at Emory University and Cornell.

Dr. Gustavson has earned considerable honors in his yet young but crowded career as a history scholar and teacher. At Cornell he held the President White Fellowship in Modern European History. He was a graduate scholar at the University of Illinois and was graduated summa cum laude from Augustana College. At Cornell he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

His continuing investigation of his field has regularly resulted in articles for scholarly journals. Among them have been "A Talisman and a Convalescence," in the Quarterly Journal of Speech, December, 1944;

"The Unpopular Monsieur Bourgeois," Survey Graphic, August, 1946; "Tojo Says History Will Judge," South Atlantic Quarterly, Spring, 1947; "German Lutheranism; A Psychological Study," The Journal of the History of Ideas, April, 1950.

Professor Gustavson has two books in the making—one of them almost ready for the publisher.

He is a member of the American Historical Association, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, and the Ohio Academy of History.

Teacher Gustavson believes "there is no use talking if the students aren't listening." So he aims to keep them listening. One way to achieve this, he finds, is to carefully correlate the past with the present.

He says: "I always select the things I am going to talk about in the classroom in terms of whether they have or do not have contemporary relevance. There isn't much use in teaching history unless you can relate it to what is currently going on."

Humor is not lacking in a Gustavson classroom. But he insists on keeping even his jokes relevant. He points them deliberately into the day's discussion.

Professor Gustavson's love of history leads him to list the subject as his "hobby" as well as vocation.

FORMER MEMBER OF FACULTY MAKES POSTAL SERVICE STUDY

News of a United States Postal Service experiment in which a prominent part was played by Edith E. Beechel, professor emerita of education, has come to the Alumnus.

The survey was conducted in Loveland, Colo., where Miss Beechel has resided since leaving Athens three years ago after 26 years at the University. The survey was designed to make it easier to locate residents along U. S. Highway 34 between Loveland and Estes Park.

Mileage and property ownership upon which a directory could be based was recorded, Miss Beechel driving the mileage and keeping account of the property ownerships along the route surveyed. The plan for numbering properties embodies a showing of the distance in miles from the intersection of Colorado Ave. and Highway 34 in Loveland.

For example, a resident whose number is 125 is 1.25 miles from the intersection. Number 1250 is 12.5 miles from it. All even numbers are on the left side of the highway and odd numbers on the right, as one travels from Loveland to Estes Park.

Nationally known in elementary education, Miss Beechel lives at 640 Franklin Ave. in Loveland, where she has become active in community service.

FACULTY, STUDENTS SEEK FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIPS

Six students and three faculty members have submitted applications for Fulbright scholarships, according to Dr. Victor Whitehouse. Scholarship grants are awarded annually for a period of one year to graduate students who plan to study abroad.

Grants include round trip passage, tuition or a stipend, a living allowance, and a small amount for books and equipment. Fulbright scholarships are a part of the program of national exchanges administered by the Department of State under the Fulbright Act.

TWO ALUMNI PROFESSORS FETED FOR LONG SERVICE

Two 20-year members of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech staff were honored at a party for the school staff held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Claude E. Kantner. Dr. Kantner is director of the school.

Honor guests were Dr. L. C. Staats, '26, A. M. '31, professor of dramatic art and speech, and Prof. Vincent Jukes, '30, director of the University's radio department. Both teachers are in their twenty-first year as members of the school's faculty.

Nine Alumni On News Staff Of The Columbus Dispatch

Every once in awhile, Professor George Starr Lasher pays a visit to The Columbus Dispatch newsroom. And you can detect a familiar twinkle in Mr. Lasher's eye as he glances around the busy office. That's because nine Ohio University alumni are on the news staff.

The director of the School of Journalism is modest about his success in training students for newspaper work. But the near-monopoly of alumni on the Dispatch staff is able testimony to his ability.

Three of the Ohio University graduates are women, six are men.

"Charlotta Schaal" is a byline often seen over film reviews in the Dispatch. Except for byline purposes, Charlotta, '45, is Mrs. Richard Becker, recently married to a stereotype worker at the newspaper. Her chief job is that of obituary editor.

Jane Sheriff, '43x, is secretary in the news photography department. She helps keep a flow of pictures moving into the newsroom.

Education editor and feature writer is Mary McGarey, '42, who was recently awarded a high rating for news stories by the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association.

Coming from the Portsmouth Times, Don Evans, '48, is a general assignment reporter and armed forces editor. He's married to the former Ann Troxell, who once worked in the University News Bureau. She is now publicity and promotion director of radio station WBNS, Columbus.

Art Bean, Jr., '49, is a photographer-writer for the Dispatch Sunday Magazine. Art was editor of the 1949 Athena.

When he isn't doing general reporting, Rowland Congdon, '49, can be found on the police beat in Columbus.

"Night man" in the news photography department is Wilmer Goff, '49, who keeps a lonely vigil on nocturnal spot news while laboring in the Dispatch darkrooms.

Covering general news and the police beat is Robert Dishon, '48. Bob's wife, Colleen, is church editor of the paper.

Paul Gapp, '50, is an editor on the copy desk, also writes film and music reviews and an occasional feature story.

It's an impressive lineup of journalistic alumni. Among them, they handle a good deal of the major stories and pictures which appear in the Dispatch.

And Mr. Lasher has good reason to chuckle a bit when he picks up a copy of the paper. The efforts of his former students are prominent in every edition.

CORNERSTONE HOLDS RECORDS FOR FUTURE HISTORIANS

Sometime in the future archeologists may unearth a large stone containing records, both phonographic and written, of a forgotten era. At least that is the hope of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech, which placed these records in the cornerstone of the new Speech Building on College Street.

The records mainly concern the activities and history of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech. Scripts of plays, textbooks, class curricula, and phonograph recordings of radio department productions and speeches by faculty are included.

A tentative spring opening is set for the $900,000 building. Work on the structure has continued through the winter, and interior finishing now is in process of completion. The three-story with basement building is especially designed to accommodate such acoustically demanding facilities as radio studios and speech correction rooms.

REPRESENTATIVE McVEY
from Illinois' Fourth

WILLIAM McVEY IS ELECTED TO CONGRESS FROM ILLINOIS

Among new members of the Eighty-second Congress is Alumnus William E. McVey, '16, who was elected from the Fourth District of Illinois. Congressman McVey was a member of the University faculty from 1916 to 1919. He was Director of Extension, 1916-19; assistant professor of School Administration, 1917-18; and principal, John Hancock (Ohio University) High School, 1918-19.

He holds a master's and a doctorate from the University of Chicago and is a nationally-recognized educator and administrator. Dr. McVey is professor of education in DePaul University Graduate School. He is a former division superintendent of schools in the Philippines. From 1919 to 1947, he was superintendent of the Thornton Township High School and Junior College, Harvey, Ill. Brandon T. Grover, '19, now assistant to the president, lived at Dr. McVey's home while he was coach at the Thornton Township High School.

The new representative from Illinois has served as an officer and member of many educator's groups, but lists no previous elective public office. He is currently a member of the Illinois State Committee assigned to the task of determining the role of the public junior college in Illinois. He is also treasurer and a member of the executive committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and a member of the National Committee for Revision of Standards for the Accreditation of Secondary Schools.

He is a past president of the Illinois State Principals Association, Lake Shore

All But One Ohio County Currently Represented In University Enrollment

All but one of Ohio's 88 counties are represented among the 5,261 students enrolled for the current semester at the University, a study of registration records shows.

The 4,068 Ohio students attending the University on the campus range from a single student from Mercer County to the 958 listing Cuyahoga as their home county. Only Putnam County is not represented.

Thirty-two of the 48 states, not counting Ohio, contribute 479 students to the campus enrollment, with New York State being the leader with 125, and in addition 31 other nations are represented among the 64 foreign students enrolled for the first semester.

The registration total of 5,258 includes the 4,608 attending on the campus and a total of 650 in the three branches—222 at Chillicothe, 248 at Portsmouth and 180 at Zanesville.

Excluding the branch students, most of whom are from the counties in which the branches are located, Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) maintains its ranking as having the largest registration with its 958 students. Athens County places second with 418 while Scioto with 130 and Stark with 127 run a close race for third and fourth ranking. Hamilton has 112, Mahoning 108, Summit 103, Jefferson 97, Trumbull 96, Belmont 88, Franklin 86, and Lorain and Muskingum 83 each. Totals from the other counties cover a wide range down to the single student listed from Mercer County. Six counties—Brown, Darke, Morrow, Paulding, Union and Van Wert—have only two students each.

The Ohio registration of 4,068 includes 2,782 men and 1,286 women, an average of approximately two men to every woman but a considerable decline from the four to one average of only a few years ago. There are 1,176 classed as freshmen, 923 as sophomores, 816 as juniors, 947 as seniors, 153 in graduate school and 53 as special students.

The out-of-state enrollment of 479 includes 295 men, 184 women, 141 freshmen, 97 sophomores, 82 juniors, 110 seniors, 42 graduate students and seven special students.

New York State is the leader with 125 students, while West Virginia has 85, New Jersey 72, Pennsylvania 71, Massachusetts 15, Illinois and Michigan each 12, Arizona, Delaware, Idaho, Kansas, Montana and Rhode Island each have a single student.

Hawaii tops the other nations student list with 7, Puerto Rico and Curacao 5 each, Japan and Nigeria 4 each, France and Greece 3 each; Turkey, Germany, China, India, Malaya, Iraq, Colombia and England 2 each; and Austria, Poland, South West Africa, Viet Nam, Liberia, Brazil, Korea, Dominican Republic, Lebanon, Holland, Canal Zone, Gold Coast, Cuba and Guatemala each have one.

The 64 foreign students representing 31 different countries are the most ever enrolled in the University. They include 49 men and 15 women, with 22 classed as freshmen, 9 as sophomores, 11 as juniors, 10 as seniors, 9 as graduate students and 3 as special students.

The campus enrollment total of 4,608 includes 3,123 men and 1,485 women, a ratio of 2.1 men to every woman. There are 1,336 freshmen, 1,029 sophomores, 909 juniors, 1,067 seniors, 204 graduate students and 63 special students.

University College, in which are enrolled all freshmen and other students attending the University for the first time, leads the University's seven colleges with an enrollment of 1,517. Commerce ranks second with 832, followed by Education 720, Arts and Sciences 636, Applied Science 403, Fine Arts 287 and Graduate 205.

The total of 5,258 is 250 less than were enrolled for the spring, 1950, semester, a decline of about 5 per cent.

Statistics from Dr. Victor Whitehouse, coordinator of veterans affairs, show 971 veterans enrolled at the University for the fall semester. These include 902 under Public Law 346 and 69 disabled veterans under Public Law 16. The senior class has 380 veterans, the junior class 257, the sophomore 144, and freshman 96. Thirteen veterans are enrolled as special students and 81 are doing graduate work. Married veterans now number 346. There are 15 women veterans enrolled.

The majority of the veterans saw service with the Army, 631, or the Navy, 257, while there are 74 ex-Marines and 9 former Coast Guardsmen.

FOREIGN STUDENTS VISIT

to the Lancaster City Hall, where Mayor Brandon officially welcomed the students to the city.

Among the Lancaster hosts were: Mayor and Mrs. Harold W. Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kirn, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Akin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wolfinger, The Rev. and Mrs. F. C. F. Randolph, The Rev. and Mrs. William Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Coen, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Steele, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schurtz.

Dr. Whitehouse and Dean Raymond A. Mickel, of Western Reserve Academy, who directs the Hudson program, arranged for the foreign students' Christmas visit to that community. Hudson has for several years entertained foreign students at Christmas, but this is the first year that Ohio University students have participated.

Mrs. Robinson is the former Lilian Boles, herself an instructor in piano at the University when she and Professor Robinson first came to Athens.

Although now wintering in Florida, the Robinsons are maintaining their Athens home.

'BRIGADOON' TO BE FA SHOW

"Brigadoon" is to be this year's annual musical production sponsored by the Fine Arts Council, Dean Earl Seigfried, head of the College of Fine Arts, announced yesterday.

The play, by A. J. Lerner and Fredrick Lowe, will be presented at Alumni Memorial Auditorium on March 14 and 15. It is the story of a mythical town in the Scottish highlands which arises for one day every 100 years. It relates what

Mrs. Rhys D. Evans (MARY CHAPPELEAR) reports a fact of interest to Ohio University alumnae; namely, that six of the 16 members of the women's chorus of the Akron College Club were Green and White graduates and that this year the new director of the singing group is Mrs. Richard W. Irvin (MARY LOUISE AIRHART, '37). Mrs. Evans is accompanist for the chorus. Besides Mrs. Irvin, other members this year are MRS. HATTIE LU GRONES LINTNER, '46; MRS. MARY ANN MCKAY BOSCOFF, '41; MRS. JOAN HAMMERSTRAND KUNATH, '46; and MRS. GRACE WALKER LOVE, '23. The Akron College Club has a membership of more than 700 persons.

Donald B. Leach, Columbus, has been appointed assistant prosecuting attorney for Franklin County. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. C. Leach (BESS DRIGGS, '09, 2-yr.). The father is a Columbus funeral director. The new appointee is a graduate of the Columbia University Law School and of the School of Government at George Washington University. For the past two years he has been a member of the staff of Ohio's attorney general.

A June Reunion Class

Although classified on Federal Civil Service rolls as "retired," ELIZABETH SANZENBACHER refuses to attach too much significance to the word. Back in her home town of Piqua after years of auditing work for government agencies, Miss Sanzenbacher says, "I'm about as busy with some local activities, including the Y.W.C.A., as when on the job. At times I wonder when I had time to teach or do office work." The Alumni Secretary hopes she will save time for her class reunion next June.

Dr. Leo C. Bean, a Gallipolis physician and surgeon, has been named to the fifteen-man board of trustees of the Holzer Hospital Foundation in his city. A new $500,000 wing is soon to be added to the widely-known medical institution. Dr. Bean is the husband of the former JULIA BAKER, '11 2-yr., and the father of Mrs. Eugene F. Plymale (NANCY BEAN, '42, 2-yr.)

PERRY W. FATTIG, B.S. '12, M.S. '13, is in his 25th year as curator of the Emory University Museum at Emory University, Ga. This well-known Methodist school, located near Atlanta, is said to be heavily endowed by the Coca Cola interests. Besides its College of Arts and Sciences, it has schools of Business Administration, Nursing, Dentistry, Law, Medicine, Theology, the Library School, and the Graduate School.

1913

VITTORIA MOODY is a personnel worker for the Chicago Board of Education, with attachment to the Montefiore School.

Frank E. Goldsberry, a retired business man and friend of many Ohio University grads and former students, died at his home in Athens on November 27. He was the father of DR. BLAINE R. GOLDSBERRY, local physician and part-time physician for intercollegiate athletics at Ohio University; RUSSELL GOLDSBERRY, '17, 2-yr., Watertown, Mass.; and Mrs. Byron D. Blair (MARY FRANCES GOLDSBERRY, '28), Chillicothe.

JUDGE ROY GILLEN, A.B. '15, B. S. Ed. '16, Wellston (see picture), whose painful accident last fall was reported in the November Alumnus is now recovering satisfactorily from the leg fracture. The cast was removed during the Christmas holidays. The Wellston jurist is a member of the Fourth District Court of Appeals. The year 1950 will not be remembered too hapily, in many ways, by the Gillen family. While on a vacation trip in the East last summer, Mrs. Gillen suffered an eye infection. A daughter, Louise, was scalded by steam from the radiator of their car on the same trip. Lenoir, a younger daughter, was stricken with appendicitis and underwent an emergency operation in a New England hospital. Still later, the Gillens' son, John, now a junior at Ohio University, had a nose broken while playing baseball. There is an older son, Homer, now a chemist with Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus and another daughter, Margaret Ann, a junior at Ohio University. Judge Gillen served two terms as mayor of Wellston, four terms in the State Senate, and was Judge of the Jackson County Common Pleas Court before being appointed to the Court of Appeals.

After spending last winter in southern California, MRS. GRACE POST HARPER returned East in June for a summer visit with relatives in Washington C. H. A fall visit of two weeks was made to Asheville, N. C., where Mrs. Harper called on a classmate, EUNICE L. TAYLOR. At the present time, she is with a daughter in Havertown, Pa. Mrs. Harper is the widow of WALTER J. HARPER, '15, whose death occurred in 1947.

A June Reunion Class

Mrs. W. Preston Haught (MAYME RUTLEDGE) of Salem, W. Va., has inquired about possible plans for a 35th anniversary of her class next June. Assurance has been given her that the Class of 1916 is on the reunion schedule. Mrs. Haught, whose husband is a retired high school principal, teaches in Berwind, W. Va. The Haughts have two sons, one a freshman at Concord College, Athens, W. Va., and another a senior in high school.

GROSVENOR S. MCKEE, Meadville, Pa., the newly-elected president of the Alumni Association, became a grandfather for the third time when, on October 15, a son, Terry, was born to his daughter, Mrs. Grace McKee Connors and her husband in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Vesey (IRENE MILLER) of Green Springs entertained the following friends at their summer home at Lakeside (on Lake Erie) during the late summer season: FRED W. OLDHAM, '17, and Mrs. Oldham, Bedford; J. C. LINVILLE, '16, and Mrs. Linville (MARY AZLINE, '16, 2-yr.), Elyria; and GLENN M. DEGROFT, '16, 2-yr., and Mrs. DeGroft (ELSIE BOGER, '16, 2-yr.), Chardon.

MARY E. HAMILTON is in her 25th year as teacher of orthopedic classes in the Nelson School in Muskegon, Michigan. She received an M. A. degree from Ohio State in 1927.

Effective last September 1, SCOTT R. WOLFE, 2-yr., became chief construction engineer of the Cannelton Coal & Coke Co., Cannelton, W. Va., and the Lake Superior Coal Co., of Superior, W. Va. He had perviously been general superintendent of the first named company. Both concerns are subsidiaries of Algoma Steel Corp., Ltd., of Sault Ste Marie, Canada. In his new capacity, Mr. Wolfe is supervising the construction of a new $2,000,000 tipple and cleaning plant at Cannelton and, when this is completed, he will build a similar one at Superior.

MRS. ANN COX GREENE is a member of the teaching staff of Junior High School #136 on Edgecombe Avenue in New York City. She acquired an M.A. degree from Columbia University in 1935. Alumni Office records indicate that her husband, Dr. J. J. Greene, was at one time a member of the surgical staff of Harlem Hospital. There has been no recent confirmation of the latter information.

EMMETT ROWLES (see picture), associate professor of physiology, is in his 28th year as a member of the Ohio University faculty. After completing work at Ohio University, he entered the University of Minnesota from which he received a master's degree in 1923. He was a member of the University of Washington faculty, at the school's Marine Station, during the summers of 1921 and 1924. All requirements for a Ph. D. degree at Minnesota have been completed except the thesis and final examination. In addition, Professor Rowles has a considerable number of credits applicable on an M.D. degree at the Minnesota school. In the picture, taken last year, he is shown (left) with JOHN O. COTTON, '49, and Mrs. Miriam Carter, a laboratory assistant. Student Cotton was making a record of the contraction of a frog's muscle on a gadget known as a kymograph.

HOMER H. MARSHMAN, senior partner in the Cleveland law firm of Marshman, Hollington, and Steadman, with Mrs. Marshman, will fly to Cuba on January 6 for a winter vacation. The Cleveland barrister is said to own a yacht which he maintains at Miami, Fla.

A June Reunion Class

On the way home from attending the meetings of the American Medical Association in Cleveland last month, DR. GEORGE A. WOODHOUSE, a Pleasant Hill physician, met with a serious mishap which will incapacitate him for a number of weeks. Returning with a Cincinnati doctor, his friend's car was struck by a truck near Marysville. Most serious of the Pleasant Hill medico's injuries was a fractured pelvis. At the Cleveland meeting, Dr. Woodhouse was general chairman of a discussion on "Public Relations in the Smaller County Medical Societies" and was also one of the eight delegates to the A.M.A. from Ohio.

HARRY M. KAISER, ex, who since 1930 has been with the United States Rubber Company in Mishawaka, Ind., New York City, Des Moines, Iowa, and Detroit, Mich., is now in the last named city where he has a staff assignment with the Tire Division Production Management Organization. He writes that "after having moved to four locations since 1941, having five various managerial assignments, and having lived in seven different homes, I feel at times like settling down." Harry married a Mishawaka girl, Miss Marieanne Quick, in 1934.

FRANCES E. HATCH, who has been with the Y.W.C.A. in Sterling, Ill., for the last three years is now executive director of the Sterling "Y." Miss Hatch received a Bachelor of Music degree from the Columbia School of Music, Chicago, in 1935.

MRS. GARNETTE MILNER FOIT, a former teacher in the Jackson County schools, is teaching home economics at Union Furnace in Hocking County. She is a onetime (1931-34) principal of Zaleski High School.

GILBERT J. SHAVER, Cincinnati, Hamilton County recorder, was elected president of the Ohio Recorders' Association during a three-day session in Columbus last month. Other association officers for the coming year are from Canton, Springfield, New Philadelphia, Celina, and Mt. Gilead.

1924

CARROLL E. STOUT, 2-yr., finds that his ties with Alma Mater are closer than ever this year. A daughter, Donnalee, is enrolled as a freshman at Ohio University. Mr. Stout and his wife were Homecoming visitors to the campus last fall. The Ohio University man is works accountant in the Household Refrigeration Division of the General Electric Company in Erie, Pa. He has been with "GE" since 1935.

Mrs. A. D. Snyder (THELMA HOUGHINS) writes that "after having taught primary grades in the Cincinnati Public Schools for 24 years, I finally resigned last June and am now 'just a housewife,' taking care of my home, husband, and fifteen-year-old son."

ROY S. KIMPEL, of the Warren Sanitary Milk Co., is the current president of the Warren Kiwanis Club.

Like father, like son. At least it is true in this case. Bob Phillips, a son of Dr. and Mrs. Glen D. Phillips (NEALE BLOWER), is studying dentistry at Ohio State University preparatory to following in the footsteps of his dad, a prominent Circleville dentist.

A June Reunion Class

ALICE DECAMP, instructor in French, Spanish, and English in the high school at Moundsville, W. Va., received a master's degree in modern languages from West Virginia University last summer. "It really didn't take me all these years to get it, however," she wrote. "Most of the graduate courses offered at W.V.U. were ones that I had had in my undergraduate days."

GLENN E. BOROUGH, who has been with the General Motors Corporation since 1927, is chief accounting officer of GMC's Photographic Section, located in the General Motors Research Building in Detroit.

KENNETH "ROPE" NELSON is located in Denver, Colo., where he is assistant chief underwriter for the Federal Housing Administration. He is also district chief of his fraternity, Beta Theta Pi. His jurisdiction, District XXII, includes five chapters in Colorado and Utah.

1928

KATHRYN PHILSON, A.B. '28, M.S. '39, a former member of the faculty of Ohio University's School of Home Economics, was a campus visitor during the recent Christmas holidays. Miss Philson, who has been working on a Ph. D. degree at Iowa State College, in Ames, is currently working full time for the U. S. Department of Agriculture on a power use research project in Iowa, the results of which will likely be acceptable on the requirements for the advanced degree. Miss Philson had a year of training at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, 1930-31, and, besides Ohio University, has taught at Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kans., and Berea College in Kentucky. In Ames, her roommate is MARY K. BROKAW, '27, who is librarian for the Atomic Institute. A former Ohio University faculty member—instructor in Latin and Greek—Miss Brokaw was a member of the research staff of TIME magazine before engaging in her present activities.

REV. CARROLL H. KITTS (see picture) is now pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Tiffin, a community in the northwestern part of the state that is the home of Heidelberg College. He came to Tiffin two months ago after a period of service as associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Long Beach, Calif., one of the largest Presbyterian churches in the Synod of California. The Tiffin minister engaged in news and radio work following graduation from Ohio University. He was ordained in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1943, and has since served churches in Dayton and Miamisburg, going to Long Beach last year. He married CLARICE MARTIN, '30, in 1932. They have two children, Martin, a high school sophomore, and Carolyn, an eighth grader.

MARY A. STALDER, A.B. '29, A.M. '32, currently studying art in New York City, is a member of a pioneer Athens family with many Ohio University connections. Her father, who died in 1911, was HARRY G. STALDER, '93. Her mother, the former Margaret Ullom (the family name was once spelled Woolam), was a music student in the University at various times over a period of years. Included, also, in her Ohio University background are an uncle, DR. JOSEPHUS T. ULLOM, '98, a physician in Germantown, Pa., and four aunts. The aunts are Mrs. D. H. Thomas (MARY ULLOM, '96), Marietta; Mrs. Robert F. Bishop (JANE ULLOM, '06), Mrs. Don Coultrap (CHARLOTTE ULLOM, '08x), and Mrs. Frank Chester (HELEN ULLOM, '04x), the last three of Columbus. Dr. Ullom is a former national president (1931-1932) of the Ohio University Alumni Association. Although exceedingly modest about the matter, Miss Stalder traces her ancestry to numerous distinguished sources. In one direction it goes back, through early Colonial history, to France and the historically famous Chevalier Bayard, who served under three kings, one of whom was knighted at the hands of the Chevalier. Later the Bayards fled to England and the widow of one of them came to New York City, then New Amsterdam, with her brother, Peter Stuyvesant, first colonial governor. A Bayard was the ancestor of John Jay, first chief justice of the United States. Miss Stalder's maternal great-grandmother, Mary Elliott Tucker, was born in Ireland in 1784 and spent fifteen weeks on a sailing ship enroute to America.

Mrs. Leigh Cadwallader (ZITA SMITH), a resident of Babylon, L. I., N. Y., is a teacher in the high school at Lindenhurst on Long Island.

DR. LOUIS E. SNYDER is a physician with residence and office at 6235 Beechmont Avenue in the Mt. Washington section of Cincinnati. A graduate of the University of Cincinnati Medical School, he first practiced in Blanchester.

A June Reunion Class

KENNETH V. ERLEWINE, Beallsville, and FLOYD E. OBERHOLZER, '35, Zanesville, were among the alumni initiated into membership in Ohio University's Lambda chapter of Epsilon Pi Tau, honorary industrial arts fraternity, at ceremonies held on the campus last summer. At the conclusion of the initiation banquet, the chapter presented a motion picture projector and screen to the Industrial Arts Department.

MICHAEL GRABAN, former instructor in journalism at the University of Nevada, is now public relations director and head of "the one-man department of journalism" at Shasta College, Redding, Calif. Shasta is a new college situated in Northern California not far from Mt. Shasta and Shasta Dam. It opened last fall with an enrollment of 270.

ROBERT W. LINTON, ex, district manager of Best Foods, Inc., of New York, has been elected president of the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives.

ROBERT H. POWELL, who has been in the automobile game for many years, first as a field representative of the General Motors Corporation and later with automobile agencies in Portsmouth, Ashland, Ky., and Huntington, W. Va., is now general manager of Atwell Chevrolet, Inc., at Chillicothe.

LAURA M. CULLER, a former teacher and a W.A.C. veteran of World War II, is now an underwriter in the Insurance Section of the Veterans Administration in Columbus.

1933

ENID I. PARRETT is associated with the Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company in Columbus. From October to May each year she serves as lecturer at Gasco Food Institutes held throughout the state. From May until October she joins other "Betty Newtons" in the planning, preparation, and testing of recipes that are demonstrated at the institutes. Themes for her food shows are: "The Way to a Man's Heart," "New Ruffles for Your Recipes," and "Cinderella and the Blue Flame."

1934

DALE G. DOWLER is an electrician with the Ohio & West Pennsylvania Dock Co., in his home city, Ashtabula. He is a veteran of war-time service with the U. S. Merchant Marine.

LAWRENCE W. RICE, ex, is vice president and general manager of the Drop-Dies and Forgings Co. in Cleveland.

ROBERT H. FELTY (see picture) was this fall appointed dean of the Lower School at the Southern Arizona School for Boys in Tucson, Ariz. This is his second year as a member of the faculty. He is an instructor in both Upper and Lower School subjects. Following graduation from Ohio University he did advanced work in business administration at the University of California at Los Angeles and taught in the public schools of Berea and Cleveland Heights. He is an intelligence officer in the Navy Reserve.

The twelve-year-old daughter, Sarah, of JOHN T. McLEAN, ex, and Mrs. McLean (RUTH IRVIN, B.S. Ed. '34, A.M. '36), of Kansas City, was one of two young girls selected last fall from among several hundred students in the city's dance studios to dance with the American Ballet Theater when it played a week's engagement in K. C. Mr. McLean is sales promotion manager for the Butler Manufacturing Company in Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. McLean is teaching fifth grade at Shawnee, Kans., and is working on her doctorate at the University of Kansas in her "spare time." The McLeans have another daughter and a son.

A June Reunion Class

WILLIAM A. HARMON, general manager of the Vanadium Tool Company in Athens, has announced plans for the construction of a new factory on a local site which will cover some 11,000 square feet. The company, which is enjoying a rapidly expanding business, employs 28 persons at the present time. Mr. Harmon, a former member of the Ohio University treasurer's staff, married DONNA HALBIRT, '38. They are the parents of a six-year-old son, William Albert, Jr.

Jack S. Sampselle, husband of RITA BURNS SAMPSELLE and for some time an instructor on the R.O.T.C. staff at Ohio University, has been appointed a Warrant Officer in the U. S. Army and is now assigned to the Transportation Corps at Camp Kilmer, N. J. Mrs. Sampselle and their son, Jay, are remaining in Athens for the present.

JOSEPH A. GOULD, onetime teacher of the opportunity class in the Penhale School in Campbell, is now principal of Reed School in the same system. Mrs. Gould, the former Imogene Woodyard was at one time (it wouldn't be fair to say how long ago) a member of the Alumni Office staff.

Ohio University alumni who have chronic or acute ailments while in the Brooklyn, N. Y., area, have a choice of several fellow Ohioans in the medical profession to fall back on for relief and advice. Among them is DR. PHILIP KAVET (formerly Kavetsky) whose shingle will be found at 1492 Eastern Parkway.

ARTHUR J. KOVELL, a teacher and coach in the high school at Newton Falls, was one of 29 persons who received Master of Arts degrees at Kent State University last June 10.

GLEN M. HANES, A.M., superintendent of the Athens County Schools for eight years, is now holding a similar administrative post with the Knox County Schools in Mt. Vernon. His baccalaureate degree was awarded by Marietta College. Mr. Hanes was succeeded in the Athens position by GEORGE E. CHRISTMAN, B.S. Ed. '35, M. Ed. '50.

WAINO A. PETERSON has been associated with the Boston office of Ernst & Ernst, one of the country's foremost accounting firms, since 1938. Two years ago he passed the C.P.A. examination and is now licensed to practice as a certified public accountant in the State of Massachusetts.

Like a good alumna, Mrs. William O. Touhey (KATHRYN HOPFINGER) is still interested in her Alma Mater. She has recently requested catalogs and other printed materials to be used in "promoting Ohio University" in her home area, Greensburg, Pa. Her husband, also a member of the Class of 1939, is purchasing agent for Kennametal, Inc., in Latrobe, Pa.

JOAN N. NIXON teaches the fifth grade in the Bremen Elementary School and is leader of a Girl Scout troop. Miss Nixon is the daughter of JOHN N. NIXON, '15, a former resident of Bridgeport, Ohio, and Wheeling, W. Va., who is now farming near Bremen. Miss Nixon was for a while associated with the Wheeling office of the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company.

RUSSELL J. N. DEAN, formerly executive officer in the Medical Rehabilitation Service of the Department of Medicine and Surgery of the Veterans Administration in Washington, D. C., is now staff assistant for Public Relations in the Office of Medical Services, Office of the Secretary of Defense, in the nation's capital.

L. G. DELONG, M. Ed. '40, acting assistant professor of education at Ohio University last year, is now principal of the high school in Coshocton. He received his undergraduate training at West Virginia Wesleyan University where he starred in football for four years. His biggest gridiron thrill came in 1925 when he helped hand Southern Methodist University a 9-7 defeat at Dallas, Tex. He played three years of professional football and is a former football and baseball coach in Ironton. Besides Ohio University, he has done graduate work at Dayton University and the University of Cincinnati.

ROBERT B. JOHNSON, holder of an M.A. and a Ph. D. degree from the University of Wisconsin, is assistant professor of Romance languages at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Professor Johnson studied at the University of California in the summer of 1937, at the Sarbonne in France in 1938-39, and at Ohio State University in 1940-41.

A June Reunion Class

Two Ohio University journalism majors hold responsible positions on the editorial staffs of periodicals published by the Standard Oil Company of Ohio. FRANCIS M. PAULSON (formerly Polcyn) is associate editor of The SOHIO News, a monthly newspaper-style publication distributed to all of the company's employees. Previously mentioned is ROBERT L. WERTMAN, '41, associate editor of The SOHIOAN, a magazine appearing six times a year and rating with the top "house organs" in the country.

ROBERT H. FELTY
(See Class of 1935 Notes)

MAJOR ROBERT V. PERKINS, a Marine Corps officer with extensive World War II service in the South Pacific, is now the officer in charge of Marine Corps recruiting in the Southern Ohio District, with headquarters in Cincinnati. Major Perkins has recently opened a Branch Office in Athens.

HELEN SARVER is a teacher in the second grade of the Anderson Township School in Hamilton County, near Cincinnati. Miss Sarver has gone back to teaching after five years in personnel work at Cincinnati's Christ Hospital.

DR. C. FREDERICK KITTLE, now a third-year resident in surgery at the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, whose professional progress and recognitions have been noted in The Alumnus on previous occasions, is currently pursuing a special fellowship at the Institute of Nuclear Studies at Oak Ridge, Tenn. The fellowship was awarded by the American Cancer Society for studies in the application of nuclear fission products to the diagnosis and treatment of human disease. On October 3, Dr. Kittle delivered a paper before the Kansas City Southwest Clinical Society covering research which had won him the Society's first prize award of $500. Only 28 years of age, Dr. Kittle is attracting the attention of many older scientists in his field.

PAUL E. WILEY, who has taught and coached in Nelsonville and Albany, is now at Belpre where last fall he coached the first gridiron team ever fielded in the Ohio River town. Coach Wiley's boys are said to have done quite well for their first experience with the sport.

Howard W. Tuttle, H. James Holroyd, and RICHARD M. MATHENY have announced the formation of the firm of Tuttle, Holroyd & Matheny for the general practice of architecture with offices at 3201 West Broad Street, Columbus. All of the partners are members of the American Institute of Architects. Mr. Matheny was a Navy officer during World War II.

"Housewife" and "homemaker" are terms frequently used by Ohio University alumnae to describe their activities when reporting to the Alumni Office. Distinctive and new is the description of herself by Mrs. Robert L. Stimely (MARGOT SHINLEDECKER)—"household engineer." Mrs. Stimely's husband, who flies Constellations for Capital Airlines, may soon receive a call from Air Force authorities. The Stimelys, with their three children (see Births), live in Berea. Of their latest, a young man immediately dubbed "Howdy," the mother says: "He's the athletic type. I can see him now, carrying the ball and the entire opposing team down the field for a spectacular touchdown. He has been standing on his own two feet since he was three months old, so we expect great things of him."

The appointment of RAYMOND C. SCHEEL as field engineer in the New York territory for the Nelson Stud Welding Division of the Morton Gregory Corporation, a Lorain concern, was announced in October. Mr. Scheel joined the Nelson organization as a member of its customer service staff late in 1949. Previous to that time he had spent five years as a member of the industrial engineering department at the National Tube Company and two years as a representative of Remington-Rand, Inc., in Lorain.

ROBERT B. KULL, who is associated with the sales department of the Anchor-Hocking Glass Corp. in Lancaster, is president of the Lancaster Junior Chamber of Commerce. He has invited Ohio University's Fred Picard, associate professor of economics, to be the speaker at a Bosses' Night Banquet at the Lancaster Hotel on January 17. Professor Picard will speak on "Business and Economic Trends of the Day." Mr. Kull is the husband of the former JUDITH IRELAND, '42. The Kulls have two children, Richard, 5, and Nancy, 3.

The REV. ROBERT E. CRAWFORD was ordained into the ministry of the Congregational Church and installed as minister of the First German Congregational Church of Fitchburg, Mass., on October 22. Following a period of war service, Rev. Crawford was a graduate student in political science at Harvard University and later was instructor in government at Suffolk University in Boston. He married EMMA HICKOX, '46. They have two children, Laura, 3½, and Douglas, 1½.

DR. VICTOR C. WHITACRE, a graduate of the Ohio State University Medical School and a World War II physician with service in the Pacific, has established an office for the practice of his profession in Beverly. The young medico, son of DR. A. H. WHITACRE, '22, and Mrs. Whitacre (LENA MAE SAMS, '21), Chesterhill, married the former RUTH DOUGAN, '44. The Beverly Whitacres have two children: Vicky, 5, and Ricki, 3.

FLORENCE HARSHMAN, for years a teacher in Lincoln School, Steubenville, is now teaching at Garfield School in the same city. Her home is in nearby Mingo Junction.

1945

VIRGINIA R. HEDGECOCK is manager of directory sales for the Michigan Manufacturers & Financial Record in Detroit. A journalism major, Miss Hedgecock was at onetime a member of the staff of Motor News, magazine of the American Automobile Association, and later a copywriter for the Hutzler Advertising Agency, Inc. in Dayton.

REV. CARROLL H. KITTS
(See Class of 1929 Notes)

EVELYN M. STANGER, A.M., is service manager of the Stix, Baer & Fuller department store in St. Louis, Mo. For two years following receipt of her master's degree from Ohio University, she was registration and counseling secretary of the Pittsburgh Y.W.C.A. She received an A.B. degree from Monmouth College in 1932.

Annabelle White (see picture) has been appointed a second lieutenant in the Women's Army Corp and is now stationed at Ft. Lee, Va. She was in the first group of women to be offered WAC commissions directly from civilian life. Upon returning to her Virginia base following the Christmas holidays spent in Athens with her parents, Lieut. White will attend a Supply School at the Ft. Lee Quartermaster Center. The WAC officer is the daughter of G. E. WHITE, '21x and Mrs. White (MODELLE RICE, '25x) and a sister of WILLIAM D. WHITE, '48, Monrovia, Calif.

WILLIAM O. ROWLAND, son of O. F. Rowland, former Athens County common pleas judge, has joined his father in the practice of law in Athens. A graduate of the Ohio Northern University Law School in 1948, he has been associated with the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company as a land agent in the local area. He was a Navy patrol bomber pilot in World War II, with service in both the Atlantic and the Pacific theaters. His wife is the former MILDRED FORD, '44x. They have three children.

MRS. CORRINE VAN DAME GREKILA, B.F.A. '46, M.F.A. '49, is instructor in speech and dramatics and director of the Spotlight Theatre at Ball State College in Muncie, Ind. Her husband, RICHARD B. GREKILA, '49, is assistant chief chemist for the Ball Bros. Company, Inc. Mrs. Grekila, a dramatics major at Ohio University, has appeared in major roles in more than 30 three-act plays and has worked in, directed, or assisted with some 50 more. For several years she worked in "summer stock" as a technician at the Cain Park

ROBERT C. ELLIS and Mrs. Ellis (ELIZABETHANN SCHULTZ, '48), (see picture) sailed from New York on October 5 aboard the S.S. Puerto Rico bound for San Juan, Puerto Rico, where the former is now a junior officer in the San Juan branch of the National City Bank of New York. They arrived, as Bob reports, "during the minor throes of a so-called revolution." They are now comfortably located in an apartment in suburban Tan Turce. Some of the street shooting in the short-lived revolution occurred in front of the Ohioan's bank. The National City Bank is said to rank at the top of banking institutions doing business on a worldwide scale. Not long after their arrival in the West Indies, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis enjoyed a reunion with OCTAVIO COSTAS, '49, and Mrs. Costas (AGNES CENTIVANY, '49) who are now in Ponce, P. R., where Mr. Costas is a representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company. The two wives were roommates at Ohio University. The picture shows Mr. and Mrs. Ellis playing shuffleboard aboard ship.

JOE S. DILLEY, son of Ohio University's Director of Admissions Frank B. Dilley and Mrs. Dilley, Athens, is teaching instrumental music at North Fairfield and supervising music at nearby Greenwich. Both communities are in Huron County.

MARY ELLEN OVERHOLT CIPRA is secretary for the Works Engineering Department of the National Carbon Division of the Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation in Cleveland. Her husband, LEONARD CIPRA, '50x, who graduated from Michigan State College with a Bachelor of Arts degree in the School of Business and Public Service, majoring in hotel administration, is the new assistant manager of Cleveland's Union Club on Euclid Avenue.

ROBERT L. MIZE, a photography major at O. U., is now in the Advertising Department of the General Electric Company in Schenectady, N. Y.

NORMAN H. FERRIER is an electronics engineer with Designers for Industry at Valley City in Medina County. His work involves chiefly the designing of equipment for use on the ultra high frequency spectrum. Engineer Ferrier, with his wife and little daughter, Jeanne, live in a farm home not far from Valley City.

NEWTON GUTTER, formerly a travelling auditor for Sears, Roebuck & Co., is now a manufacturers' representative in the automobile accessories field. He covers the states of Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana. He and Mrs. Gutter, who was CORRINE PARKER, '46, now own their own home in Cleveland just a block away from the former's brother, LESTER GUTTER, '49, and Mrs. Gutter (VIVIAN LENKER, '47). Lester is manager of a novelty company making shoulder pads.

FRANK A. MIRABILE, B.S. Ch. '47, M.S. '49, is teaching chemistry and working on a doctorate at Notre Dame University this year.

Phillip G. Cook (see picture), received an M.S. in geology degree from the California Institute of Technology last June and shortly thereafter accepted a position with a consulting engineer (petroleum engineer and geologist) in Los Angeles. The business activity includes oil property mapping and evaluation. With Mrs. Cook and their year-old daughter, Christine, he lives in South Pasadena.

MELVIN R. SMITH, B.S. Ed. '48, M. Ed. '50, a teacher and coach at the Demarest School, Demarest, N. J., is working on the D. Ed. degree at Columbia University. He is also proprietor of Smitty's Restaurant on Route 17 near Mahwah, N. J. Mr. Smith was recently elected to the New Jersey Delegate Assembly, an organization of teachers and school administrators. He is the youngest member ever elected to the body and is currently the only one not yet on tenure.

GERDA PETERICH, who was a visiting lecturer in photography at Ohio University, 1946-1949, is now working on a master's degree at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., and engaging in free-lance photography, including portraits. Her work has recently been exhibited in Rochester's Memorial Art Gallery, and she is currently preparing a one-man show of Graphic-Graflex made pictures for nation-wide distribution by Graflex, Inc.

BARBARA J. WERNER writes: "I work for the Akron Education Association which is the local organization of Akron public school teachers. I am the sole employee and act as secretary to the Association's membership of over 1200 teachers. P.S.—I like my work very much."

DALE R. WITCRAFT is manager of the Youngstown chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association. Prior to moving to the Mahoning County metropolis last September, he held a position in the Union Relations Department of the Cleveland Electrical Illuminating Company. While in Cleveland, Mrs. Witcraft (MARY HUSTON, '48) taught in the public schools of that city and in suburban East Cleveland.

LT. DONALD M. MOATS, an Air Force officer, is (or was) in Korea with the 18th Fighter Bomber Group. Before the recent major Red offensive, he had been at Pusan and then at Pingyang. Fast-moving events have made it impossible to know or predict his present whereabouts. Lt. Moats is a statistical officer and also serves his group as assistant adjutant and historian. Among his duties are the preparation of recommendations for decorations and awards. Mrs. Moats, the former DOROTHY ECKERT, '49, and their two daughters, Linda and Joanna, are now living in Akron.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT C. ELLIS

CARROLL G. McDOWELL, whose home is in St. Albans, V. Va., became associated with the J. M. Huber Oil Corporation at Borger, Tex., early last spring. In June, he was transferred to the company's district office in the Petroleum Building, Wichita, Kansas, where he is now a junior geologist. His sister, DORIS K. McDOWELL, also of the Class of 1949 and J-Prom queen of 1948, is now teaching at Lyndhurst in the Greater Cleveland area.

ROBERT L. HIGGINS is a district field representative, in Columbus, for the National Electrical Contractors Association. He and Mrs. Higgins have a daughter, Melinda Jane, who will soon celebrate her second birthday.

WILLIAM A. FRAZER, a graduate student last year at the University of Nebraska, is now a chemist in Washington, D. C., with the National Bureau of Standards.

Dr. O. L. Shelton, dean of the Butler University graduate seminary, Indianapolis, has announced that RUSSELL F. BLOWERS will receive the Caleb E. Davies Memorial Award of $500 for 1951. The award is made each year to an outstanding student in the Butler School of Religion. Mr. Blowers was chosen from over 300 students on the basis of ability and scholarship. During the coming year, he will write four dissertations on the subject of "The Atonement" to be printed in religious publications and to be used as Pre-Easter meditations in Indianapolis newspapers. Besides his work at Butler University, Rev. Blowers is serving as minister of the Christian Church at Bentonville, Ind.

JULIAN M. SNYDER, with the Radio News Service of the United Press Association in New York City, has written two radio dramas that have been produced and aired by the Mutual Broadcasting System, with Station WOR as the point of origin. The second play, a mystery drama, "The Giant Walks," dealt with a mad scientist who developed a serum which produced a man thirty feet tall.

PHILLIP G. COOK
(See Class of 1948 Notes)

The young radio playwright is the son of JULIAN M. "NOBBY" SNYDER, SR. '22, Harrison, N. Y., and MRS. D. DAVID REEDER (MARIAN BUSH, '24x), Athens.

SGT. CHARLES J. FLEMING, JR., assistant last year to Ohio University's dean of men, was assigned to the Vint Hill Farms Station at Warrenton, Va., after processing at the Reception Center at Fort George G. Meade. Md. Warrenton is located in the famous "horse country" of the Old Dominion state. The editor thinks it unlikely, however, that Sgt. Fleming will have many opportunities for socialite fox chasing.

LOWELL F. KINDINGER is enrolled in the graduate school at Ohio State. A brother, RICHARD A., '50x, is a student in Ohio State University's School of Veterinary Medicine. His wife is ELLANORAH HUBER, '52x.

Deaths

GRACE GROSVENOR SHEPARD

MRS. GRACE GROSVENOR SHEPARD, '93, wife of DR. CASSIUS M. SHEPARD, '96, a Columbus physician and surgeon, died November 15 in Grant Hospital in her home city.

Mrs. Shepard was a daughter of the late General Charles H. Grosvenor, Athens, who was a member of Congress for 20 years. She was an aunt of CONSTANCE G. LEETE, '18, assistant professor of Romance languages at Ohio University; GROSVENOR S. MCKEE, '16, Meadville, Pa.; Mrs. Granville H. Evans (GRACE MCKEE, '19), Belmont, Mass.; and Mrs. Edwin A. Jones (KATHERINE MCKEE, '27), Jackson.

Burial, following cremation, was in Columbus.

EUGENE FRANKLIN THOMPSON

The death of EUGENE F. THOMPSON, '06, 2-yr., last July, has been reported by his wife, Mrs. Rose Thompson, from her home in San Francisco.

Mr. Thompson was for seven years (1906-1913) secretary to Ohio University's President Alston Ellis.

Alumni Office records show that in 1916 Mr. Thompson was a special representative of the Motor Truck Tire Department of the McGraw Tire & Rubber Co. In 1925, he was Northwest district manager, in Seattle, Wash., for the General Tire & Rubber Co., and later, for several years, was branch manager for General Tire & Rubber in Chicago.

HOMER GLENN GRIFFIN

H. G. Griffin is reported to have died last November 25 at the Veterans Hospital in Aspinwall, Pa., after almost a year's illness. He taught in the high school at Sioux City, Iowa, following graduation from Ohio University in 1917. He went to Pittsburgh in 1928 where he was for many years an instructor in commercial subjects in Schenley High School.

LILLIAN SNYDER LANGSHAW

The death of Mrs. H. T. Langshaw (LILLIAN SNYDER, '42), a former teacher in the Maple Heights School, died Feb. 23, 1949. The sad event has just been reported by HELEN LAKSO, '48, a teacher in the Fairport Harbor schools. MARY JANE SNYDER, a sister of the deceased, is a freshman at Ohio University.

JEANNETTE BROWN FRAZER

Mrs. John L. Frazer (JEANNETTE BROWN, '21, 2-yr.), wife of a Wellston physician, died at her home in the Jackson County town on Christmas morning. She had not been in good health for the past three years, but her death at this time was unexpected.

Prior to her marriage in 1930, Mrs. Frazer had taught in public schools in Chillicothe and Columbus.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two children: a daughter, Ruth, who is a student at Stephens College, and John, a student at Kentucky Military Institute.

MARGARET JONES DE SAIX

Mrs. Arthur De Saix (MARGARET OLWEN JONES, '24, 2-yr.) died unexpectedly, November 6, at her home in Detroit, Mich. She was a teacher in the Detroit schools and had been in the classroom on the day of her death.

A native of Oak Hill, Mrs. De Saix held a degree from Wayne University and had attended Ohio State University. She was a teacher in the Columbus schools for several years.

The deceased was a sister-in-law of J. Floyd Dixon, director of the Ohio University Extension Division.

VERA BOARD

Vera Board, assistant professor of piano at Ohio University from 1926 until her retirement in 1946, died November 15 at the home of a sister in Cleveland.

Although not an alumna of the University Miss Board was known to many graduates and former students as a result of her two decades of service as a teacher.

Miss Board was born in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, and was a graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. She had also studied, for three years, at the Royal College of Music in London, and studied privately in Paris.

Before coming to Ohio University she had taught at the Ontario Ladies College, Whilby, Ont.; Bristol School, Washington, D. C.; and Eastern College, Manassas, Va.

MARGARET BUTCHER

Word has been received of the death last March 31 of MARGARET BUTCHER, '21, 2-yr., a retired teacher, at her farm home near Beaver, Pike County.

Miss Butcher retired in 1940 after 47 years as the first grade teacher in the Beaver schools.

Besides Ohio University she had attended Columbia University in New York City.

NED CURFMAN GIBSON

NED C. GIBSON, '00x, a retired Canandaigua, N. Y. restaurant operator and an early-day football player at Ohio University, died of a heart ailment on July 30 at a V. A. hospital. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Mr. Gibson was a brother of Mrs. A. J. Cederborg (IRENE GIBSON, '12), Fair Haven, Vt., and CLYDE O. GIBSON, '11x, Athens.
